ABOUT

After finishing his undergrad at San Francisco State University, Chris turned his focus to the legal field. Undecided on law school, he decided to enroll in the paralegal studies program here at Santa Rosa Junior College. During his time there, Chris gained invaluable education through an internship with the Mendocino County Superior Court, and then through a position with non-profit law firm Dependency Legal Services. With this experience, Chris has made it to Hanna Brophy where he learns the ins and outs of workers' compensation and gains insight from top professionals in the industry.
