ABOUT

Nancy Jones is a certified paralegal with many years of experience in workers' compensation defense. She conducts legal research, drafts petitions and briefs and assists the attorneys in the defense of workers' compensation claims.

Prior to joining Hanna Brophy, Nancy worked for a large workers' compensation defense firm supervising the research department, training law clerks and was instrumental in the creation of workers' compensation charts and calculators.

Nancy also worked for an insurance company and third party administrators in the capacities of workers' compensation claims adjuster, supervisor and manager and holds a qualified self-insurance administrator certificate.

In her spare time, Nancy enjoys quilting, hiking, gardening and spending time with her family.
