ABOUT

Nicole Jones joined the Los Angeles office in 2021, practicing workers' compensation defense for self-insured private employers, insurance carriers, and government entities. She is currently working in the Los Angeles office.

Nicole earned her J.D. degree from Chapman University in 2020. During her time at Chapman, Nicole worked in a civil litigation firm, resolving complex business and employment matters. One of her fondest law school experiences was working at the Chapman Tax Law Clinic where she provided compassion and counsel to low income clients.

Prior to law school, Nicole graduated from University of Washington in 2015, where she majored in political science.
