ABOUT

Nicole is a dedicated legal professional, specializing in the representation of insurance carriers and third-party administrators across the spectrum of workers' compensation defense. Armed with a Juris Doctor degree from Chapman University's esteemed Dale E. Fowler School of Law, she is proficient in intellectual property law and contract negotiations, having earned an Emphasis Certificate in Entertainment Law for her advanced coursework in these fields.

Before her pursuit of law, Nicole distinguished herself at the University of California, Irvine. Graduating cum laude, she majored in Criminology, Law, and Society. Her exemplary research abilities in these areas were recognized with an Excellence in Research Award from the School of Social Ecology.

In addition to her legal prowess, Nicole boasts a profound commitment to sustainability, particularly by continually striving to reduce her plastic footprint. A fervent advocate of work-life balance, she also invests her leisure time in enhancing her physical wellness, with cycling and Pilates being her activities of choice. Nicole is an exemplar of the modern, conscientious legal professional, equally dedicated to her clients and her commitment to environmental sustainability.
