At Hanna Brophy, I assist attorneys with workers' compensation defense cases and other related matters. My prior experience was working as a law clerk at a plaintiff's employment and business law firm in Sacramento. I handled employee's claims of harassment, hostile work environment, and wage and hour violations. During law school, I was an intern for a federal magistrate judge at the Eastern District Court of California. I was a research assistant for a professor. I was also a teaching assistant for legal research and writing courses.
